Dear Parents:

As we head into Vacation week, there are several things I would like to remind you of that will assist us here at school. These past few weeks have been crazy. Between weather and furnace days, early release days, and ski/skate Fridays we have not had a typical "normal" week in quite some time. Even during these crazy weeks, however, students are expected to attend abbreviated days as teaching and learning is still taking place. Friday's ski/skate afternoons are an extension of the school day and attendance is also expected.

We attempt to provide information to all parents via the Website and Facebook page, emails, and especially notes sent home. Communication is an essential tool for not only education but also for student safety. Please ask your child or look for these notes in student backpacks. Notes from parents are the preferred method of communication when students have appointments or after school plans and should be turned in to the office first thing in the morning. Additionally, if your child is going to be out, please call the office in the morning for our records and for state reporting.

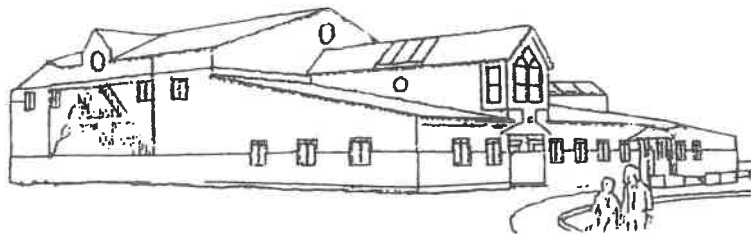

On a positive note, the weather has certainly warmed so those of us that wish to recreate outdoors can do so without as many layers. Personally, more snow would be welcoming but that is one thing I cannot control.

I hope you all enjoy the February break and take the time to do something relaxing.

Sincerely,

Barry O. London
